PERSONAL STATEMENT

I'm a literary and technical translator, recently graduated top in my class in a Master's degree in Modern Languages. I've always studied languages, and my main goal is to make them my career. I've had different work experiences, in different fields: I worked in a bookshop as shop assistant, greeter and seller; in a travel agency as greeter, ticket issuer, and advertising responsible; as a translator for different translating companies and for privates; as an English and Spanish tutor, with children and teenagers, and as an English teacher. I'm organised and punctual, and also very efficient.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Technical Translator – January 2017 – present
Day Translations, 415, Madison Avenue, New York NY, 10017 US
<https://www.daytranslations.com/>

- Technical translator on legal, administrative and bureaucratic documents, usually from English, Spanish and French into my mother tongue, Italian and vice versa;
- Translation of a few legal papers, such as a document, from Italian into English, of the Register of Birth, Marriages and Death;
- Taking care of the formatting of the document, making it identical to the original version, with the aid of the Office suite;
- This position improved my adaptability and flexibility: I have the ability to approach different kind of texts with the same commitment;
- This job helped me improving my organisational skills: deadlines are strict and must be respected, thus I learned how to organise my time and be efficient and precise.

Freelance translator - October 2014 – present
Private employers, Lecce (LE) 73100, Italy

- Translation services from English, Spanish and French into Italian, and vice versa, of different kind of texts and fields: scientific, economic, legal, humanistic, etc.
- I recently translated a series of documents about the psychological topic of Mindfulness, an essay in economics about Statistics and the Game Theory, and an archaeology paper about the Iliad;
- Also this position improved my adaptability and flexibility: I can change topic and field easily and provide an excellent translation thanks to my hard work and commitment.

Freelance Literary Translator – September 2016 – present
Babelcube Inc., http://wwwbabelcube.com/

- Literary translator of novels and short stories;
- Translation of two novels, published as e-books through different publishing companies and platforms like Amazon or Barnes & Noble: "Andalusian in Jerusalem" (from the Spanish version "Andaluz en Jerusalén" by Mois Benarroch: <http://wwwbabelcube.com/book/andaluz-en-jerusalen>) and "The travels at the turn of the century. Travel to Mallorca" (from the Spanish version "Los viajes del cambio de siglo. Viaje a Mallorca" by Mario Garrido: <http://wwwbabelcube.com/book/los-viajes-del-cambio-de-siglo-viaje-a-mallorca>).
- I learned how to handle the translation of a whole novel, thing that obviously requires specific skills and abilities, besides a great sense of organisation and punctuality.

English teacher - July 2017 – present
Louis Formazione Professional E-learning School, 8, via Monte Napoleone, Milano (MI)
20121 <http://www.louisformazione.it/>

- English teaching via Skype lessons;
- Teaching to adult people and to my peers in this schools has strengthened not only my communication skills, since I have to deal with people of different nationalities and ages, but also my informatics abilities.

English and Spanish private tutor - October 2015 - present

Private employers, Lecce (LE) 73100, Italy

- Private afternoon lessons in English and Spanish to children and teenagers, helping them preparing exams, tests and/or certifications;
- This position allows me to improve my leader skills, since in these kind of relations I have to be in charge and responsible of the situation.

PERSONAL INTERESTS

In my spare time I like being surrounded by my friends and family and enjoying some cultural activities in my city. I love art in all its forms, especially music and cinema: I also write reviews and critiques from time to time. I'm keen on photography: I often have experiences as an amateur photographer and video maker. Furthermore, I'm an avid reader: I joined some online reading and writing platforms for emerging authors of different nationalities. Lastly, I'm a passionate traveller: I enjoy travelling and meeting different cultures and countries whenever I can. I'm also ready to move abroad, if necessary.
